FIFTH SUNDAY OF LENT (B) 17TH MARCH 2024

THE HOUR HAS COME

Today's passage from Jeremiah tells of a covenant unlike what Israel has known. Whereas the Sinai covenant identified multiple stipulations that Israel was required to uphold, in this covenant Israel is passive. God would place this new covenant within the heart of the people. Israel would receive this covenant freely. While similar images in a variety of texts in the Old Testament (for example, Ez 11:19-20; 36:26; and Is 42:9), nowhere else do we hear of a new covenant until we turn to the New Testament.

Psalm 51, often associated with King David, though not necessarily composed by him, is one of the better-known of the seven penitential psalms. The refrain "Create a clean heart in me, O God," is a plea for newness. The heart, in Hebrew anthropology, was the most vital of all organs. It also was understood to be that place where discernment took place and where decisions were made.

As the liturgical year draws closer to the celebration of the Triduum, the New Testament readings bring our attention to the death of Jesus. In the Letter to the Hebrews, Jesus' humanity is detailed. He was a being who prayed, cried, learned, and suffered. In the Gospel, Jesus states, "The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified", indicating that the time of his suffering, death, and resurrection is at hand.

The journey of Lent challenges us. We desire to change, to live more faithfully to God's covenant with us, but sometimes we struggle. We may not know in our situation what it means to live out God's law. As we enter the final weeks of Lent, our mindfulness turns to God's enduring mercy and the divine grace creating in us a clean heart.

BISHOP ALAN LISTENS' RESEARCH REPORT

Understanding why Catholics in the Diocese of Brentwood no longer come to Church.

Last summer Bishop Alan invited Catholics who no longer regularly come to Church to get in touch so that he could seriously listen to their stories and experiences and begin to understand why so many Catholics no longer feel as though they belong in the Church.

This report presents a moving and challenging insight into how our Church and the covid-19 pandemic have contributed to a movement away from a regular practice of faith for many Catholics and offers our Church a rich repository of wisdom that might enhance and inform our ongoing journey of renewal in the diocese.

Thank you to all those who so generously and thoughtfully participated in this research. Please share this link/report with those whom you know have participated in this research. Go to the home page of <https://www.dioceseofbrentwood.net/> to see the responses of hundreds of Catholics across our diocese and hear what Bishop Alan heard.

Caritas Diocese of Brentwood

In the Gospel narratives, we hear of the family displaced from their home, finding solace in a humble stable, cradling their newborn amidst the simplicity of their surroundings. This Holy Family, vulnerable yet resilient, resonates profoundly, urging us to reach out to those facing hardships during this Advent season. It prompts us to remember that amidst the festivities, there are individuals and families across Essex and East London experiencing great difficulties, requiring our support, kindness, and care. Numerous charitable organisations persist in their efforts to aid the most vulnerable in our communities, and they rely on our collective support. Please visit the Caritas website to access links to the many charities in need of generosity and volunteers.

Pope at Angelus: God embraces us and frees us from our sins

At the Angelus prayer on Sunday, Pope Francis acknowledges that God loves us so much that He is not interested in putting us on trial to condemn us, but rather to embrace and save us all, as to ensure that none of us is lost.

By Deborah Castellano Lubov

Even if we feel weighed down by sin or mistakes, Jesus is ready to comfort and save us.

This was the comforting message Pope Francis offered during his Sunday Angelus address at noon to the faithful and pilgrims gathered in St. Peter's Square.

The Holy Father had drawn inspiration from today's Gospel reading according to St. John, which this Fourth Sunday of Lent recounts the figure of Nicodemus.

Jesus came not to condemn, but to save

The pharisee, the Pope recalled, saw the signs Jesus performed, recognizing in Him a teacher sent by God, and therefore he went to meet Him by night, so as not to be seen. The Lord welcomed him, conversed with him and revealed to him that He came not to condemn, but to save the world "Let us pause to reflect on this," Pope Francis said, "Jesus came not to condemn, but to save. It's beautiful..." The Holy Father recalled that "no one is perfect," and that "we are all sinners," but that does not interfere with God's incredible love for us.

He embraces us

"There are no secrets before the Lord," the Pope noted, explaining that the Lord does not point the finger at us, but "embraces our life," wishing "to free us from sins and save us." "Jesus is not interested in putting us on trial and subjecting us to judgment; He wants none of us to be lost," he said.

The Holy Father asked everyone to think of the many times we condemn others or gossip and encouraged us to ask the Lord going forward to instead look at others mercifully, as Christ does.

Conversion through the Lord's grace

"The Lord's gaze on each one of us," the Holy Father said, "is not a blinding beacon that dazzles and puts us in difficulty, but the gentle glow of a friendly lamp, which helps us to see the good in us and to realise the evil, so that we can convert and be healed with the support of His grace."

Pope Francis concluded by calling on the faithful to imitate God's love for others, and praying to the Blessed Mother that we may desire the good of one another.
